Question 31 [Marks: +{'positive': 1, 'negative': 0, 'negativeUnattempted': 0}]

Passage
Remote work, once treated as an emergency arrangement, has become a lasting feature of the information-technology industry. Firms discovered that many roles can be performed without a shared office, and employees valued the time saved on commuting. Productivity studies, however, present a mixed picture. Individual task completion often improves when people work from home, but collaboration on complex problems tends to slow down. New joiners, in particular, learn less quickly when they cannot observe experienced colleagues. Companies have therefore shifted toward hybrid models: a few fixed office days for teamwork, with the remaining days left flexible. The success of such models depends less on software tools than on clear norms—when to meet, how to document decisions, and how to include people who are not in the room.
According to the passage, new joiners learn more slowly when they work remotely because they

Options:

- (A) are given fewer software tools than office staff
- (B) spend too much time commuting
- (C) cannot observe experienced colleagues
- (D) refuse to follow hybrid schedules

Question 32 [Marks: +{'positive': 1, 'negative': 0, 'negativeUnattempted': 0}]

Arrange the sentences to form a coherent paragraph. P: Customers then wait longer, and complaints rise. Q: A single outdated instruction can stop a whole assembly line. R: Factories therefore treat documentation as part of daily operations, not as extra paperwork. S: Shop-floor work depends on clear, current instructions.

Options:

- (A) S Q P R
- (B) Q S R P
- (C) S P Q R
- (D) R S Q P

Question 33 [Marks: +{'positive': 1, 'negative': 0, 'negativeUnattempted': 0}]

Choose the one-word substitute: A person who can use both hands equally well.

Options:

- (A) Ambiguous
- (B) Ambivert
- (C) Ambidextrous
- (D) Amphibious

Question 34 [Marks: +{'positive': 1, 'negative': 0, 'negativeUnattempted': 0}]

Passage
Remote work, once treated as an emergency arrangement, has become a lasting feature of the information-technology industry. Firms discovered that many roles can be performed without a shared office, and employees valued the time saved on commuting. Productivity studies, however, present a mixed picture. Individual task completion often improves when people work from home, but collaboration on complex problems tends to slow down. New joiners, in particular, learn less quickly when they cannot observe experienced colleagues. Companies have therefore shifted toward hybrid models: a few fixed office days for teamwork, with the remaining days left flexible. The success of such models depends less on software tools than on clear norms—when to meet, how to document decisions, and how to include people who are not in the room.
What is the main idea of the passage?

Options:

- (A) Remote work has failed and companies should return to the office full-time.
- (B) Hybrid work is emerging because remote work has both benefits and limits.

- (C) Software tools are the main reason hybrid models succeed.
- (D) New joiners prefer working only from home.

Question 35 [Marks: +{'positive': 1, 'negative': 0, 'negativeUnattempted': 0}]

Choose the grammatically correct sentence.

Options:

- (A) Each of the players have received a medal.
- (B) Each of the players has received a medal.
- (C) Each of the player has received a medal.
- (D) Each of the players are received a medal.

Question 36 [Marks: +{'positive': 1, 'negative': 0, 'negativeUnattempted': 0}]

Passage
Remote work, once treated as an emergency arrangement, has become a lasting feature of the information-technology industry. Firms discovered that many roles can be performed without a shared office, and employees valued the time saved on commuting. Productivity studies, however, present a mixed picture. Individual task completion often improves when people work from home, but collaboration on complex problems tends to slow down. New joiners, in particular, learn less quickly when they cannot observe experienced colleagues. Companies have therefore shifted toward hybrid models: a few fixed office days for teamwork, with the remaining days left flexible. The success of such models depends less on software tools than on clear norms—when to meet, how to document decisions, and how to include people who are not in the room.
In the sentence “Productivity studies, however, present a mixed picture,” the phrase "mixed picture" means that

Options:

- (A) all studies reached the same negative conclusion
- (B) the results show both improvement and decline, depending on the kind of work
- (C) researchers used poor data
- (D) productivity cannot be measured at all

Question 37 [Marks: +{'positive': 1, 'negative': 0, 'negativeUnattempted': 0}]

Passage
Remote work, once treated as an emergency arrangement, has become a lasting feature of the information-technology industry. Firms discovered that many roles can be performed without a shared office, and employees valued the time saved on commuting. Productivity studies, however, present a mixed picture. Individual task completion often improves when people work from home, but collaboration on complex problems tends to slow down. New joiners, in particular, learn less quickly when they cannot observe experienced colleagues. Companies have therefore shifted toward hybrid models: a few fixed office days for teamwork, with the remaining days left flexible. The success of such models depends less on software tools than on clear norms—when to meet, how to document decisions, and how to include people who are not in the room.

The author suggests that hybrid models succeed mainly because of

Options:

- (A) expensive video-conferencing software
- (B) a complete ban on work-from-home days
- (C) clear norms for meeting, documenting and including remote colleagues
- (D) longer commuting hours

Arrange the sentences to form a coherent paragraph. P: Mentors help them convert that theory into workplace judgement. Q: Campus courses teach programming languages and tools. R: Without that guidance, even strong graduates repeat avoidable mistakes. S: Fresh engineers therefore need both classroom knowledge and supervised practice.

Options:

- (A) Q P S R
- (B) Q S P R
- (C) S Q P R
- (D) P Q R S

Question 40 [Marks: +{'positive': 1, 'negative': 0, 'negativeUnattempted': 0}]

Arrange the sentences to form a coherent paragraph. P: Over time, that habit lowers the quality of group decisions. Q: People stay silent in meetings when they fear looking uninformed. R: Leaders can reduce the fear by asking for dissent and thanking people who raise risks. S: Useful objections then never reach the table.

Options:

- (A) Q S P R
- (B) Q P R S

- (A) vague
- (B) fallible
- (C) watertight
- (D) redundant

Question 43 [Marks: +{'positive': 1, 'negative': 0, 'negativeUnattempted': 0}]

Passage
Remote work, once treated as an emergency arrangement, has become a lasting feature of the information-technology industry. Firms discovered that many roles can be performed without a shared office, and employees valued the time saved on commuting. Productivity studies, however, present a mixed picture. Individual task completion often improves when people work from home, but collaboration on complex problems tends to slow down. New joiners, in particular, learn less quickly when they cannot observe experienced colleagues. Companies have therefore shifted toward hybrid models: a few fixed office days for teamwork, with the remaining days left flexible. The success of such models depends less on software tools than on clear norms—when to meet, how to document decisions, and how to include people who are not in the room.
Which of the following is true according to the passage?

Options:

- (A) Every IT role still requires a shared office.
- (B) Employees did not value the time saved on commuting.
- (C) Individual home-based task work often becomes faster.
- (D) Hybrid models have no office days at all.
